Request from the National Council on Federal Labor-Management Relations

The National Council on Federal Labor-Management Relations (the National Council) would appreciate your help.

The National Council wants to compile and make available a comprehensive list of resources for labor-management forums and other labor-management groups engaging in pre-decisional involvement (PDI). They are seeking resources that help fledgling forums get off the ground and that help existing forums overcome hurdles to success.

Please reply to this email and send us links to useful online materials and attach materials that we can post on the National Council website. Include your contact information so we can get clarification, permission, etc., if needed. This will be an ongoing project, so please save this email address and continue to send us new material as well as updated materials as you discover them.

Thank you.

On behalf of the National Council,
OPM's Partnership and Labor Relations
